

NAFPLIO

A special place, mysterious, blessed, full of natural beauty and culture, continues to flourish and for centuries now charm its visitors.

The son of Poseidon, Nafplio, built the city giving it his name and so it started the history of the city that was called by the Venetians the “Naples of the Orient”. The vast Caste of Palamidi with its 850 stairs, the “Bourtzi” island, the “Syntagma Square”, the fountains, the small stone streets in the center, the aromas, the Argolis gulf, everything contributes in harmony to the creation of a charming, authentic city that is calling its visitors back, again and again.
